

LIFE EVENTS: CARATACUS, KING OF THE CATUVELLAUNI

| SET A      |  | SET B  |
|------------|--|--|
| AD 5       | The Romans name Cunobelinus 'King of Britain'.   | Great, my Dad is King! He's really made it!  |
| AD 40      | Cunobelinus dies.  | My Father is dead. I will be king!   |
| AD 40      | Adminius flees to Rome for protection from Caratacus and Togodumnus.                                 | That coward Adminius has fled to his Roman masters.  |
| AD 43      | Claudius leads the invasion of Britain with his commander, Aulus Plautius.                           | Oh no! The Romans are coming!  |
| AD 43      | Togodumnus killed in battle.   | My brave brother, Togodumnus, has died fighting the Roman invaders.                                      |
| AD 43      | Caratacus is King of the Catuvellauni.   | The Catuvellauni make me their King.   |
| AD 43 - 51 | Caratacus leads the tribes against the Romans.   | I lead my warriors in many fierce battles against the  |
| AD 51      | Caratacus and his warriors are defeated in a fierce battle against the Romans.                       | We fight bravely but we are finally defeated.  |
| AD 51      | Caratacus flees north to Cartimandua for protection. He takes his family with him.                   | I take my wife and family and journey north to seek protection with the Brigantes.                       |
| AD 52      | Cartimandua betrays Caratacus and his family to the Romans.  | How wretched we are! Cartimandua has betrayed us to the dreaded Romans.                                  |
| AD 53      | Caratacus and his family are led through the streets of Rome as prisoners. They expect to be killed. | The crowds in Rome stare at us. I will show them how noble a British Prince can be in the face of death. |
| AD 53      | The Emperor was so impressed with Caratacus that he frees him and his family.                        | The Emperor listened to my words and has shown mercy to us all.  |

Cut Set B along dotted lines